Counseling
Calvin Seminary values the formation of the whole person for ministry. This includes spiritual and emotional well-being. We are glad to provide a variety of counseling opportunities for all of our students and their dependents. These opportunities include individual counseling, marriage counseling, family counseling, group counseling, assertiveness training, and emotional intelligence seminars. All of the counselors maintain the highest standard of confidentiality. They do not report the content of conversations with clients to the seminary. Please contact the Counseling Coordinator, Sarah Chun, to help connect you to the right counselor for you.

Individual Counseling
Subsidized individual counseling is available for students and spouses with a maximum of 20 sessions per academic year. For a list of counselors and fee schedule, see Sarah Chun.

Marriage Counseling
Subsidized marriage counseling is available for students with the seminary paying $50.00 per session and the student paying the balance—normally $20.00 per session with a maximum of 10 sessions per degree program.

Group Counseling
Opportunities for group counseling are usually made available in the Fall or Spring. These sessions are open to eight students at a time. Opportunity to sign up for group counseling will be made available via email well before the sessions start. The seminary pays half the cost.

Assertiveness Training and Emotional Intelligence Seminars
Assertiveness Training seminars and Emotional Intelligence (EQ) seminars are also offered periodically, normally once every two years. The seminary pays half the cost.

Additional Information:
All of the counselors maintain the highest standard of confidentiality. They do not report the content of conversations with clients to the seminary.

While Calvin Seminary offers subsidized counseling services, students with a health care plan that includes a counseling benefit are required to utilize their plan first.
